Yes, Yes . . .
Well, things are getting back to normal again.
Last night two of the boys, heading down the hill from the Hall for a big evening, met a frightened sailor running hell-bent-for-leather up the hill. Pursuing him were what appeared to be three gorgeous freshettes. At least, they were wearing green ribbons.
"Hey!" yelled the sailor as he passed, "Is Douglas Hall this way?"
The boys told him it was. The sailor kept on running.
Well, they say in days of old the pursued took refuge in the Monastries. . . .

Filler . . .
Here is something that came to us, like Jan Valtin. Out of the Night:
The girl stood at the Conversat, Her eyes were full of tears,
We asked her what was wrong; she said,
"Well, I was out with an Engineer tonight and he THOUGHT he could drink forty beers."

Geology Jest . . .
It seems the Geology I class goes on very interesting little field trips . . . with blondes and everything. Seems last week the boys went to Cartierville, and found they had some walking to do . . . only they decided not to walk. There beside the road were the tramway tracks . . . and on the tracks rested a pretty little hand car.

The boys didn't stop to think. They leapt on the car and went. Unfortunately, you can't make a hand-car go very fast if you aren't used to working one. Suddenly behind them loomed the terrifying figure of the gang foreman, brandishing a pick-axe aloft. He gained fast.
As if that wasn't bad enough, a street car suddenly appeared in front and began bearing down on them. The old devil and deep blue sea idea.
The boys didn't stay to see what happened. They jumped and started running.
The foreman gave a scream of anguish and ran to rescue the hand-car.
Last seen, the boys were still running. . . .

And Then . . .
... there was the story of the freshman, new to the pleasures of Montreal, who partook of a little too much the other night. Wandering home through the campus, he became in some manner entangled with the Three Bares. . . . An interested observer heard him remark to them, in a conversational tone of voice, "Say, aren't you boys a bit cold tonight?"

Just One More . . .
... the story of the freshette who was caught going into an English Two class without her bow.
So the entire Vigilante Committee stopped her and took her telephone number.

To End It All . . .
Like the old actor who decided he would look well hanging from a hook with the rest of the hams, we find our time is up . . . so until next week, be careful. . . .

Red Cross Makes Plans For Year

Other Students Begin P.T. Work This Afternoon

The McGill detachment of the Canadian Red Cross Corps held its special advance meeting on Friday, October 10, for all women in the upper years who had registered for the Corps. The Corps is a new addition to the War Service Training Program for Women, and over fifty girls were present at the meeting to apply for admission into the Corps.

The recruits for the Corps were measured for their uniforms on Friday, but will not be in possession of them for another eight weeks as the orders must go to Toronto. The Red Cross girls will wear grey uniforms with the McGill crest and the Red Cross insignia attached. Forage caps, with a strip of McGill red, will also be worn.

The detachment will be organized into companies and student Non-Commissioned Officers will be in charge of these companies. Army organization is carried further in the detachment's physical training program, as the Red Cross members will undergo Physical Drill in charge of Army Instructors.

The courses of instruction in the Red Cross detachment will be divided into two parts, in accordance with the division of the college year into two terms. During the first term, the members of the detachment will study a course in Map Reading, and be taught the principles of organization in the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Red Cross. Members will continue study in further fields of specialization during the second term, during which time they will take courses in Air Raid Precaution, transport service, or auxiliary nursing. Physical Fitness courses for first year students will begin on Tuesday, October 14, and the courses in War Service Training will begin with the First Aid Class on Monday, October 20. A notice giving details of hours appears on the R.V.C. notice board.

I.L.O. Acting Director To Address Local Club

Edward J. Phelan, acting director of the International Labour Office, will give the luncheon address at a meeting of the Canadian Club at the Windsor Hotel at 1 p.m. this afternoon. Mr. Phelan took over the directorship of the I.L.O. when it became vacant by the appointment of the former director, John G. Winant, as U.S. ambassador to London. As a delegate from London to the Versailles conference, Mr. Phelan was active there in laying the foundation of the I.L.O. The organization was forced by the outbreak of the war to leave Geneva, and come to Canada. It is now accommodated on the McGill campus as a guest of the university.

R.V.C. Nominations In All Years Open Till Thursday

In order to fill the offices of President, Vice-President, Secretary-Treasurer, and Athletic Representatives of all the years in R.V.C., nominations are called for, and in the fourth year the additional offices of Vice-dictator and Class Historian must be filled, it was announced by the Women's Union last night.

Each of these nominations must be signed by ten students in order to be valid.

In first year the nominations must be handed in before the English II lecture on Thursday morning, October 16. Immediately following the lecture the elections will be held for the various executive posts.

The nominations for second, third, and fourth year officers must be left in the Women's Union box in the Porter's office in R.V.C. before 1.00 p.m. on Friday, the 17th. The elections for these offices will then take place by ballot during the following week, as will be announced in a future edition of the Daily.

Musty Music Record Reveals Students' Taste

Laborious Search Is Rewarded by Interesting Data

By R.M.

A search through the record book reveals that, while a comparatively small number of students use the Music Room, those who do show especial discrimination of taste. Bach, Beethoven, Tchaikovsky and Grieg are the most favoured composers, and Rimsky-Korsakov's "Schernezade" seems to be the most popular selection. Modern or unconventional music is not often played, though one hardy soul once ventured on the "St. Louis Blues." However, Milhaud's fantastic "Creation du Monde" and Offenbach's ludicrous satires make regular appearances. Occasionally the linking of an Airis I with a Strauss waltz shows where some freshman, venturing for the first time, played the only thing he knew, and left, as one likes to imagine, in embarrassed hurry. Mozart leads in opera; no one ever requested the whole of "Aida" or "Tristan und Isolde." Honours for attendance, surprising as it may seem, go to the reputedly uncultured Engineers.

A demonstration by Dean Clarke further revealed that the phonograph is in prime condition and shows a decided improvement over last year. Dean Clarke is justly proud of it, and would like to see more in attendance at the Music Room. The Library is to be recommended to all, for there is music to suit all tastes—and improve them.

Rev. Nash Talks At Lunch Today

Fresh Open House Given by S.C.M. Wednesday

The S.C.M. at Sir George Williams College is presenting the Rev. Arnold Nash of Ripon Hall, Oxford, and Liverpool University, as guest speaker at a luncheon meeting at 1.00 p.m. today. Mr. Nash came to the United States in 1939 as visiting lecturer in Christian Ethics at Berkeley Divinity School, California, and Yale Divinity School. He has also lectured at universities in Iowa, Nebraska and Ohio, as well as in the Union Theological Seminary in New York City.

The S.C.M. of McGill is co-operating in this meeting at which the topic of address will be along the lines of the research on problems of the social sciences, in which Mr. Nash has been engaged at the London School of Economics. Continued activity in reception of the Freshmen is forthcoming (Continued on Page Four)

Large Turnout Makes First Union Informal Success

House Committee to Sponsor Second Dance on Saturday

Dishevelled hair and swinging skirts were the order of the day as 125 couples jived to the hep music of Blake Sewell and his ten piece band last Friday. This was the first informal dance sponsored by the Union House Committee and it turned out to be a huge success.

Even the dog who wandered in about eleven o'clock pricked up his ears and boogie-woogled his way out—with the help of several solid boots. The music was excellent and ranged from smooth Viennese waltzes to the latest Conga and swing rhythms arranged to suit every taste.

Freshmen took advantage of the opportunity to become better acquainted with Freshettes, even overcoming such obstacles as moustached upperclassmen who were well represented. But several little members of the O.G.B. (Order of the Green Bow) were noticed humbly stepping aside as seniors approached their cuties.

Many of the Frosh who thought they could forget their green bows for the evening were amazed to find the Vigilantes on—or shall we say off—their necks. For they were instantly denuded of their silk cravats and left tieless. Woe was theirs!

Because this dance was such a hit, the Union House Committee has decided to hold another next Saturday night, October 18th. Music will be supplied by Eddie Alexander and his popular orchestra. The price is $1.00 per couple and tickets are available at the Tuck Shop now. As before, refreshments may be obtained at the cafeteria throughout the course of the evening.

Choral Society To Be Revived

Group Hopes For Concert After Christmas

Plans are being made for a revival of the McGill Choral Society it was announced last night. This society, which has been inactive for the past few seasons, will have its first meeting on Wednesday at 5.00 p.m. in the Music Room of the McGill Union.

Membership is open to any students, men or women, who are interested in singing. This year the group is going to practise one large choral work and some shorter pieces for a concert which is to be given after Christmas.

Mr. Chapman of the English Department has consented to conduct the choir. When interviewed last night Mr. Chapman said, "I have felt for some time the lack at McGill of a choral group in which oratorio or cantata music can be sung by men and women together."

Rehearsals of the society will be held once a week at a time to be determined at the first meeting. All students who are interested in serious music for mixed voices are urged to be present in the Music Room at 5.00 p.m. on Wednesday.

M.R.T.B. Band

There will be a practice of the M.R.T.B. Band in the Ballroom of the McGill Union at 7.30 p.m. tonight. All students interested in playing in the band are urged to attend.

Plans Outlined By Newman Club

Two Informals Slated For Near Future

A tentative program of activities for the coming season was presented by the executive at the first meeting of the Newman Club, held on Sunday, October 12. At least two informal dances are to be sponsored before Christmas, and full co-operation was extended to any coeds who might wish to have a tea for the rest of the members.

The President, Kevin Fay, suggested that apart from an address by a guest speaker, some member should also prepare a paper on any topic of his choice. In compliance with this request, Frank MacMillan gave a resume of the life and work of Cardinal Newman.

Chaplain Father Cooney welcomed the new members, and outlined the purpose and aims of the Club. The next meeting is scheduled for Sunday, October 26. Mass will be celebrated in Our Lady's Chapel at 10 a.m., and breakfast will be served afterwards in Congress Hall.

Dr. Sigerist Slated For Evening Address

Dr. Henry Sigerist, of Johns Hopkins University, will give his second address during his one-day visit on the campus when he speaks at Strathcona Hall tonight, on the subject: "Youth has a World to Win." In addition to being an authority on medical history and organization, Dr. Sigerist's contributions to his field include a recent exhaustive study of medical development in the Soviet Union.

The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Montreal Committee of New Advance—National Youth Magazine, and is free to all students.

Glee Clubs to Meet Today

Rehearsals to Be Held in Union and R.V.C.

Rehearsals of the McGill Glee Club and the R.V.C. Glee Club will get under way today, it was announced at the combined meeting of the two last Thursday. The men's rehearsal will take place in the McGill Union at 5 o'clock. The meeting of the R.V.C. club will be held at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Harry Norris, director of the clubs, has urged strict attendance, "for only by regular attendance and conscientious practice can excellence be attained," he pointed out. Marjorie Townsend, President of the R.V.C. Glee Club has also urged enthusiastic support to make the (Continued on Page Four)

Maccabean Circle Gets Under Way

Club Plans Two Functions For Coming Week

The Maccabean Circle will open the coming season with several social events this week. These events will include a tea to be held for the Freshettes on Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock and a smoker for the freshmen on Thursday evening at eight o'clock. Both will take place in the conference room at Strathcona Hall. All Jewish students are requested by the executive to attend these functions.

The purpose of these get-togethers is to acquaint the new students with the workings of the club and to consolidate friendships made among the Jewish students so far. A general meeting is planned for the near future.

Commenting on the circle, the president stated that owing to the increase in the number of freshmen and the added vigour displayed by the executive that he believed that this year should prove the most successful in the history of the organization.

War Lectures In Medicine Start Today

Third, Fourth Years Affected; Others to Drill

Today, McGill students in the third and fourth years of medicine will start in on a program of 42 bi-weekly lectures in "naval, military, and aviation medicine." All first and second year men students—who are British subjects, medically fit—take a course of training which specifies six hours' drill and other training each week.

This course, opening today for all students of third and fourth years, will be held in the lecture theatre of the Biological building. All non-British and women students must attend also, it was announced.

The lectures will be given Tuesdays and Thursdays and are scheduled to last approximately one hour each. Just third and fourth year students will take two hours' training a week.

The syllabus of training for the two "clinical years"—third and fourth—at McGill is also under consideration by the University of Montreal for its students in like category, it was learned at the McGill medical faculty recently.

Lectures to be taken by the third and fourth years are on the following subjects: camp sanitation, venereal diseases, tropical medicine, immunology, and protective measures, gas warfare, naval medicine, aviation medicine, and military law, administration and examination of recruits as applied to medical officers.

A plan similar to this for the medical students has been arranged for next year also.

Rev. Dr. Johnston Addresses IVCF

First Luncheon Of Series Held At M.C.F. House

The first of a series of bi-weekly luncheons, to be held throughout the year, was given by the I.V.C.F. on Friday, October 10, at the new McGill Christian Fellowship House at 3445 Peel street. The address was given by the Rev. Dr. J. A. Johnston of the Westmount Baptist Church.

Dr. Johnston mentioned the contemporary youth mobilizations in various countries for political purposes, and he called for a mobilization of youth for Christ. According to Dr. Johnston, this mobilization must begin with the individual, who will find before him four clearly defined steps toward this goal of mobilization.

The first step as outlined by Dr. Johnston is enlistment under the banner of Christ. This enlistment, so said the speaker, is purely voluntary: "God doesn't burglarize our lives or crash the gates of personality." There has been, said Dr. Johnston, no adequate challenge to our lazy lives, and one must enlist and, in the words of Paul, "accept stern discipline as a loyal soldier of Christ."

After enlistment, continued Dr. Johnston, the individual must consecrate himself to Christ's service, and must put this service before all lesser considerations. He will then make a new discovery, as life opens before him: that Christian life is not cramped and shackled but freed in Christ.

The third step is to endeavour to satisfy Christ at all costs. As the aim of a soldier is to gratify and satisfy his commanding officer, so must a soldier of Christ aim above all to please Him, and obey His commands.

The final step, according to Dr. Johnston, is reached when youth sets itself the task of recruiting others. "This work of recruiting others to Christ, in Dr. Johnston's words, 'confirms the reality of one's own enlistment and brings unequalled joy.'"

Subsequent to the luncheon was the Hymn Sing, held on Sunday evening at the M.C.F. House, which afforded to all interested an opportunity for closer acquaintance with the I.V.C.F. and its activities.

Carnegie Library of Music Opens Today

Today marks the opening of the Carnegie Library of Music. Following the same procedure as was employed last year the students will be permitted to operate the phonograph themselves. Those who have volunteered are reminded to report at the arranged time. Others are needed to fill gaps in the schedule and those who are interested are asked to enroll in the Conservatorium. The music room is located in the Conservatorium of Music on Sherbrooke Street, corner University.

R.C.A.F. radio experts have overhauled the phonograph this summer giving it a greater perfection of tone and volume.

Conflicting Reports

The German-Russian war seemed to have reached more advanced stages as the strategic town of Vyazma was reported to have been taken by the Nazis. In the same communique the Moscow report claimed to have slowed the German blitz. According to Berlin, however, the German army was said to have been one hundred miles from the Russian capital.

In London, it was officially announced that the R.A.F. had pounded the German industrial centres of Nuremberg, Bremen and Boulogne. Ever-increasing insurance was revealed in the fact that 20 more executions took place in Bohemia and Moravia.

Washington Neutrality

In the United States, the movement for repeal or amendment of the Neutrality Act seemed to be reaching more militant stages. In a speech to the House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee, the Secretary of the Navy, Frank Knox, urged increased help to the allies, "even at the risk of war." At the same time, President Roosevelt revealed that the United States was rushing great amounts of supplies to help the Soviet Union's "brave defence."

Defence Minister Ralston arrived in London by plane yesterday, claiming this to be merely a routine trip. He said he had come "merely to keep in touch with Canadian troops and review Canadian activities." He was accompanied by chief of the general staff, Major-General H. D. G. Crerar.

McGILL REDMEN ROUT VERDUN 13-1

Score Two Touchdowns With Driving Last Quarter

Earl Morris Receives Costly Injury

By BOB MacINTOSH.
McGill's football squad served notice to all and sundry yesterday afternoon that a good team is in the offing, a team which is only too ready and willing to meet anything the city can offer.

FUMBLES PREVAIL

The first half was marked by considerable sloppiness on both sides, but as the game progressed, the Redmen improved, until the Grads cracked under pressure. McGill kicked off to Verdun, who came back up the field in a hurry on a long pass to Coleman. The attempted placement failed, and Keay kicked off of danger to centre field. The two teams swayed back and forth, neither of them getting anywhere, because of numerous fumbles. A blocked kick on the 15 yard line brought McGill into a threatening position, but they managed to keep the game more even by fumbling again. The Grads then proceeded to duplicate this feat: after opening up on their strongest offence of the game, they fumbled on the McGill 20 to leave McGill in possession of the ball at quarter time.

VERDUN SCORE

Two successive penalties to McGill and another completed pass by Verdun again brought the Grads into scoring position. This time they took advantage, and drew first blood with a rouge. A minute later Verdun missed what turned out to be their last chance to score a major when they again fumbled on McGill's 15.

MORRIS INJURED

McGill's victory was marred during the next few plays, when Earl Morris suffered a seriously fractured leg. Apparently the accident occurred when Morris was clipped on a kick formation. Vin Young was also injured on the same play, when he withstood a healthy kick in the stomach. When the half ended, McGill was knocking at their opponents' door.

KEY SINGLES

The Redmen started out strong in the second stretch, and increased the pressure right up to the closing minutes. Forcing the city team back into home territory, McGill tied it up on Keay's kick. Rapelje sparked the boys into a versatile attack, as he skirted the end twice for yards, and heaved a long pass to Landry, who was downed on Verdun's 20. Keay kicked the point again to put McGill in the lead 2-1.

The game lapsed momentarily at the turn of the quarter, marked only by the occasional fumble. The Grads were again forced back under the shadow of their own goal posts, due largely to the strength of the McGill line. A lucky break occurred when Hall picked up Elson's fumble to romp over the goal line. Smith's attempted convert failed, and the score stood at 7-1.

RAPELJE SHINES

At this point Rapelje went on another one-man rampage for the college team. Receiving a long pass from Byington, he kept on going to Verdun's 16. On the next play he

by allan

It was a bright, sunny, Thanksgiving afternoon, which made an ideal football setting. On the green gridiron of Molson Stadium, a red-clad squad could be seen emerging from a huddle. They would line up with their backs to the ball, then shift into formation at a bark from the quarterback; and another deceptive play would be underway for a substantial gain. The first thought that struck us was, "The Kerr Klan rides again." But this was only an exhibition game, and perhaps we had lapsed into a momentary dream.

Judging from the pervading atmosphere at the game, there were many more apparently giving way to wishful reverie. For students thronged to the stadium—some fifteen hundred in all, including many loyal co-eds—to cheer the Redmen on. When they arrived to take their seats in the privileged north stands, they found Manny Fineman and Dave Haviland, with megaphone and all, ready to lead the cheering. This demonstration, coupled with the interest shown in last winter's hockey exhibition, seems to indicate the strong desire among students to watch a team play in McGill colors. Particularly, when the contests are arranged to take place at a convenient time, such as a holiday afternoon, a large turnout could be counted on.

The brand of football displayed by the Redmen merited every bit the crowd of supporters. The players gave everything they had to defeat the Verdun gridders. Down by a 1-0 count at the end of the first half, they fought all the way to capture the lead at three-quarter time, and finally to launch an overwhelming scoring drive in the last ten minutes. Except for the color of the visitors' sweaters, the Redmen might have been playing any other college squad. In the second quarter, a Verdun man had a clear road to the goal line, but Max Gertler had no thoughts of the importance of the game, when he set out in hot pursuit, never slackening his pace until he had overtaken his quarry, virtually to save the game. When Jim Rapelje went charging through the line, he might have been fighting for a championship. Moreover, the staying power of the McGill squad showed how well the intracompany training can prepare them for an outside game. Such spirit deserves spectators at every possible opportunity.

The present generation of McGill gridders seems to have inherited from their forbears that uncanny ability to take advantage of their opportunities. When they did fumble before they were warmed up in the first half, they saw to it that the enemy gained nothing from their misdeeds. But toward the end of the game they were still on their toes, so that John Hall could charge through to gobble up a fumble and count the first major score. When they needed an extra yard or two or three for a first down in former years they would call on Andy Anton; yesterday they gave the ball to Rapelje. When they were in striking distance of payoff ter-

C and D Coys. to Open Softball League Today

Today at 5 p.m. C and D Companies will meet in the opening game of the Intercompany Softball League. The game should prove to be an interesting one since many of the softball players who turned out to the practices last week have shown their worth as softball players. This game and the following games will be played on the upper field diamond next to Douglas Hall.

Each team in the league will have the opportunity of playing three games with each team playing on Sports' Day, Oct. 17. In the Intercompany Softball Games as in other Intercompany Games points will be given to the various Companies for playing. 5 points will be given for playing a game and 5 points for winning the game. A bonus of 25 points will be given for the league winner and 10 points to the runner-up.

Tennis Tourney Reaches Semi-final Playoffs

The tennis tournament passed its crucial stage this past weekend as second, third, and quarter final rounds were played. Under the able supervision of Heinz Heinrich matches were arranged for Saturday and yesterday and were run off with no undue delay.

STIFF COMPETITION

The play continued to be of very high calibre and although the seeded men were offered stiff competition they succeeded in defeating their opponents in all but one case. This was in the third round match when W. Brodeur defeated Robinson, seeded fifth, by scores of 2-6, 6-3, 6-2. This was the first upset of the tourney and it might be well to note at this point that the top men were seeded correctly and each attained the position he merited.

Due to the lack of facilities only two doubles matches have been scheduled to date, but starting today they will be run off as quickly as possible. The singles draw today will consist of one quarter final match and two semi-finals which should be very interesting.

EXHIBITION MATCH

All participants who reached the quarter finals were placed on the McGill team and will play against the University of Montreal in an exhibition match some time next week. The date is not definite as yet. The team includes such well known tennis players as Watt, Richer, Maccen, Henneman, Heinrich, W. Brodeur, Marlen, and Wolever.

Red Shorts

by irene

Once again red shorts and white blouses have to be taken out of moth balls, as another busy season of military exercises begins next Monday. The halls of R.V.C. will be a pleasant sight for any stranger that dares to venture into forbidden territory.

As yet, very little has happened in the women's sports world at McGill, so we will dig up the past and try to show all newcomers just what went on last year.

Once a week we were taught how to bandage our friends, and for two hours each week we went through the keeping fit exercises. On the side there was basketball, ping-pong, swimming, fencing and archery. Later on, when ice and snow appeared, hockey came into the limelight, and the co-eds proved their skill against the daring Engineers.

In the spring the co-eds joined forces with the M.R.T.B. and put on a wonderful display in aid of the war effort.

Anyone interested in archery should get in touch with Marguerite Harris, the manager, who will pick a team to compete against Macdonald College and also participate in the Inter-Collegiate Telegraphic Meet.

We hope to bring you the co-eds' sports world each week under this head, and also try to live up to the reputation handed down to us by last year's women's sports editor, who wrote the well known column "Ceiling all Co-Eds."

picked up 8 more yards through left centre, and Murray Robinson barged over for the touch. Rapelje converted in the last few seconds of play, and McGill settled for a 13-1 victory.

As a team, McGill showed definite possibilities. Both first and second string lines held all the way, while Jim Rapelje proved to be a triple-threat material in the backfield. Read, Gertler, Smith and Fitterer also played well, while Coleman and Phil Dagleish tried hard for the Grads.

rtory, Rapelje would tear a leaf from Russ. Merfield's book, and fade back to toss one of those long, haymaking forward passes with unusual accuracy.

Coach Kerr's substitution strategy was an important factor in his team's victory. He kept his first-line men rested for the final quarter for the victory drive and to demoralize the Grads. The head linesman scratched his head in dismay as a whole new team trooped past him en masse.

The picture was marred by a fractured leg suffered by Earl Morris, a noted McGill skier, when executing a block. It was an unfortunate accident to an aggressive player, and he was helped from the field on a stretcher.

English Rugby Feature Play at Westmount Park

Last Saturday two English rugby games, now a popular feature in Montreal, were played at Westmount Park. In the first game Australia "C" beat New Zealand "B" 11-5, and in the second match the combined teams of Westmount and McGill tied with New Zealand "A" 11-11.

The first half of the second match saw an unwilling Montreal team weakly defending its ground. The New Zealanders took advantage of this lack of spirit of their opponents and scored an early try which was not converted. A while later a rush by Curliess enabled Leatham to cross the goal line for a second try in favor of New Zealand. Aldridge converted bringing the score to 8-0. In the last minutes of the first half the Montreal forwards made a long run, but the three quarter line missed the chance to score with a fumble.

The second half saw a new home team; hard and determined to make up for the first half. Early after the whistle Patterson made a run for a try, but because of the difficult angle from which Tyhurst had to kick, the try was not converted. Elated by this first success the Montreal team took command of the plays, and a few minutes later Joyce and Larsen carried the ball over the New Zealand line for the second try in favor of the home team. Again the try was not converted.

Two minutes from the end, after Montreal stopped a dangerous rush of the New Zealanders, Mackie got a try which was converted by Patterson, giving the lead to Montreal 11-8. However the more experienced New Zealanders did not give in and with a short kick Bork sent the ball in the hands of Eastwood, who made a 40-yard run to score the last try for the hosts. Aldridge failed to convert, and the match ended with the score of 11-11.

The teams were:

TROY COLLEGES TO FEATURE VARIOUS INTER-AMERICAN WEEK CELEBRATION.

Again President Roosevelt's brainchild, Inter-American Week, is having one of its widely celebrated birthdays throughout America to call national attention to this mutual expression of a dynamic good neighbor policy. The festivities are to include wholesale speechmaking at R.P.I. and Russell Sage, radio program designed for capitol district listeners, and a speaking program to be led by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The following summary of the events to be presented in Troy is indicative of the pains to which American cities habitually go to foster mutual respect and co-operation in the Americas.

On Wednesday, October 8, in Sage Park, there will be a twenty-one flag salute to the American republics with representatives from each of the countries participating.
